WHILE the Republican race for state senator is hotly contested, the Democrats are running Norman Nelson Jr., Elk Grove Village, who is expected to win.

Nelson will challenge the winner of the Coahast at the June 14 primary.

The measure of the battle with the exception of one Republican race for county commission, is without contest.

Legion Nine Sweeps Twin Bill, Opens League Play Tonight

BY DON CARVER
A first - no rally in the bottom of the seventh yesterday gave the Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team a 5-1 win over Downers Grove and a sweep of their exhibition double-header.

The big blow was the first game 5-1 after having lost a 2-1 thriller to Winfield in exhibition action Saturday.

The sweep yesterday gave Arlington a 2-2 record in the pre-league schedule. First Division action opened tonight with Glenview traveling Arlington Heights' Recreation Park for a 5 p.m. single game.

Don Somers and a wild pitch put runners on second and third, and a single to center by Doug Fisk wrapped things up.

The Arlington crew went into their last bats on the short end of a 5-3 score in yesterday's action, but three walks and three hits - including one - run trips by Mark Newman, just off the game out of the club.

DOWNERS GROVE out to hit the Arlington side in the second game 10 hits to five, but the first game was all Arlington's. The 5-1 triumph came on seven hits and went to John Fiedel, who worked the whole game.

TRAD WOODARD opened the frame with a walk, and Newman's three-bagger made the score 5-0.

John Longman followed with a walk and stole second, and a single by Jerry Donahue brought him home. A walk

THE WIN WENT to Newman, who had started at third base but shifted to the hit for the first inning. But being off the mound, he was hit into trouble in the third and fourth frames when Downers Grove scored a total of five runs on seven hits.

Arlington led both 2-0 and 3-0 in the first inning on two errors and two walks.

Fiedel allowed three hits, and the loss Downers Grove lally came on an error, a single, and two walks in that inning.

By that time, though, Arlington was already ahead 3-1 on a first inning rally that included three walks and a single by Longman.

Arlington's last two runs came in the sixth on singles by Woodward and Longman, and three errors and two wild pitches.

THE ARRLINGTON boys were almost silent against Hillside Saturday in a slugging contest. Louie pitcher Jerry Donahue gave up a pair of runs in the first inning on two hits and two errors, and that was all the winners need.

Mt. Prospect 9 Opens With Win

A five-run first inning put the clinch on the Mount Prospect American Legion Junior baseball team's first win yesterday as the Prospectors whipped Hillside in exhibition play 9-4.

The local squad opens league play tonight in the regular "First Division" facing Des Plaines at Maine West High School at 8 p.m.

Doug Kingman, yesterday's winner, will get the Prospect post tonight, too. Coach Mark Thompson predicts a 10-0 victory for the Prospectors, who are 1-0 in league play and 2-0 in exhibition games.

Kingman, responded with two-hit performance.

HE PLANNED seven and allowed two runs, and gave up four walks. Three of the runs came in the away game, which included Kingman ran into a little difficulty - which included hitting on a bunt.

That was the losing he allowed the two runs - but Mount Prospect already had a big lead, so there was no serious damage done.

STILL, THOMPSON decided to rest Kingman after the fourth, and called only his younger brother, J. D., for two innings in relief.

J. D. came on strong, striking out the visiting Hillside one and walking none and giving up no hits while facing three.

Mike Stiles pitched the final inning for Mount Prospect, surrendering a pair of runs on two walks and a triple.

THE BIG FIRST INNING for Mount Prospect opened with second baseman Paul Leisage leading off with a single. Centerfielder Tom Leisage, and J. D. Thompson then walked the bases full, allowing catcher Tom Leisage to triple them into a 3-0 lead.

Some Day

Dear Kid:

That fellow they gave you a new way station to the wide open world.

After all the money side down, suddenly there's the house in going to make another kind of money. Something about going out and finding a job.

Let me be discouraged. It takes hardly no work at all to find a job nowadays. In fact, the help wanted columns are so plump you can almost take them.

Remind yourself that this is America, the land of opportunity, and nobody is going to push you off the new line. You'll find it right there. "There aren't any jobs," they say. You're just going to have to wait and wait.

When you make $100 a week, you'll find it. It's not the problem from the angle of what you do for the money, but what the boss can promise you. You'll find it. You'll find it. You'll find it.

How much good does last money, last money, last money? It's not the problem from the angle of what you do for the money, but what the boss can promise you. You'll find it. You'll find it. You'll find it.

When you make $100 a week, you'll find it. It's not the problem from the angle of what you do for the money, but what the boss can promise you. You'll find it. You'll find it. You'll find it.

With waiting for his little... it's not the problem from the angle of what you do for the money, but what the boss can promise you. You'll find it. You'll find it. You'll find it.

Vantage Point

Thoughts while waiting for the votes to be counted.

Early projections indicate a solid Republican victory in Washington Territory.

We must have done a good job reporting the committee's race between Gene Schickman and Tom Norbury. Both candidates are good men.

Will there be "outsider" party primaries in two years for the top office posts? or has the Republican Party learned that the people, in the final analysis, are the ones to make the choice?

HOW WILL the all-Washington Territory precincts on paper before the election? Will we have the results by midnight?

Will the June primary (it has always been held in April in the past) result in a tie? or a landslide for the "outsider" party?

Will the June primary (it has always been held in April in the past) result in a tie? or a landslide for the "outsider" party?

Will the June primary (it has always been held in April in the past) result in a tie? or a landslide for the "outsider" party?

and the other out of the party after a particularly bitter primary.

In LIGHT of Norbury's early announcement of support for Schickman for State Representative, will Schickman's name be decided for state representative on sample ballot circulated by Citizens for Norbury?

How much good does last money, last money, last money? It's not the problem from the angle of what you do for the money, but what the boss can promise you. You'll find it. You'll find it. You'll find it.

Ballplayers edge in close to the track as possible in the banner year into the stretch of Arlington Park. The action should grow even more intense in the 36-day Arlington Park Jockey Club and the day Chicago Tribune Charles, Inc. meeting game under way June 26.

New Season Opens Monday

Arlington Slates Own Triple Crown

Arlington Park may have the final word on this year's three-year-old championship when the local track features its own triple crown this summer.

HEADING THE lineup of the Arlington Park Jockey Club and Chicago Tribune Charles Inc. plans of the 103-day coordinated season, which begins June 30, is the $100,000 added Arlington Classic June 25. That race plus the July 5 $100,000 added Chicago and the $100,000 added American Derby Aug. 5, combine to make up a $300,000 Mid-America triple. Also featured will be the brand new $50,000 added Armita, a one-mile race for three-year-olds July 23.

TWO-YEAR-OLDS are also slated for a lot of action this summer, as they draw the spotlight in five different events beginning Monday with the $20,000 Midwestern for two-year-olds. Highlighting the series will be the $50,000 Arch Ward on August 5. Rounding out the meet are the John, the May, and the Hyde Park Handicaps.

THE BIG emphasis on the year-old colts, though, will be placed on the Washington State phase of the co-ordinated Arlington-Washington program. The world's richest triple for year-olds, the $360,000 added Arlington-Washington Futurity and the $200,000 Arlington-Washington Lanes for three, are both slated for the Washington Park meeting.

The July schedule at Arlington was headed by the annual Stars and Stripes Handicap on the fourth of July. The race will be run for three-year-olds and awards on the 1 1/8-mile grass course.

THAT SAME course will be used by fillies and mares for the $40,000 added Beverly Handicap on July 16. Three-year-old fillies will face their biggest test on August 3 in the $50,000 added Pucker Up, at one mile on the main course.

THE ARLINGTON DAY
Tuesday, June 14, 1964

Check Pedersen, golf pro at Midland Farm Country Club, Waukegan, Ill., recommends some careful work on the wedge shots in today's golfing column. "Pedersen's" column appears in the Day each Tuesday and Friday.

Pedersen's Pointers

Pitching Wedge Can Save Strokes

BY CHUCK PEDERSEN
GOLF PRO
Midland Farm C.C.
Once you have conquered the pitching wedge, you can start chipping strokes off your score exceptionally fast.

THE WEDGE should be used for shots from right around the green to roughly 100 yards away from the pin. The stance should be slightly open, allowing easy distribution of the weight and proper balance. Considerable back use on the high flexing wedge shot is a tremendous advantage since you're shooting at an elevated target by necessity.

The ball should be addressed with your feet roughly 18 inches apart. Your hands should be well ahead of the clubhead upon impact, which means that you're here to open a firm left wrist without losing entire movement.

THERE IS often a tendency to open the club face to a dangerous angle. I purposely leave the club in a position to avoid striking the shot to the right.

After the impact I try to visualize the clubhead traveling in a continuous line from the hole. This helps through action being the shot and developing good habits.

Golf fans are getting excited about the impending appearance of Fred Hoke, the famous golf shot maker, at Midland Farm Country Club at 4 p.m. June 26.

The program is open to the public, and no admission will be charged. We hope you'll join us then. Midland Farm is just off route 41.

Schlickman Beats Novomy; Graham Wins Over Atcher

Committeeman Race Close in Wheeling Twp.

By JACK A. VANDERMYN
Victory was doubly sweet to Eugene Schlickman last night.

He turned back a determined effort by Tom Novomy to assume the top leadership post in the Wheeling Township Republican Party. And he counted by an easy vote in his bid for a second term in the Illinois House of Representatives.

The only later spots in Republican political circles was the tight vote margin. Official results showed 1,529 primary votes in Wheeling Township. Of these, Schlickman defeated Novomy 1,358 to 1,371—a margin of 187 votes.

Novomy staged a rapid campaign against the force of the Regular Republican Organization that backed Schlickman. At about 11 p.m. he visited Schlickman's headquarters in Mount Prospect Plaza and was cheered by a crowd of about 200 Republican workers.

EARLY morning rain did not help as the lead changed hands several times.

Senator Saved by 'Home' Vote

BY FRANK VON SEXT

Sen. John A. Graham, who narrowly defeated Bob Atcher, mayor of Schaumburg, in the Republican state senatorial primary Tuesday.

With all but five of the 203 precincts reporting in the township, 7,195 to 7,132 with 39 of 40 precincts reporting, Graham won 2,453 votes to Atcher's 2,442. With last T. Davis of Streamwood and Atcher and Davis.

ATCHER opposed Graham last night and almost had even in Wheeling Township.

Graham carried Elk Grove Township 1,935 to 1,932 with 39 of 40 precincts reporting, two in Schaumburg Township 1,397 to 1,443 and Meigs Township 231 to 202, and in Northfield Township 130 to 531 with 17 of 19 precincts reporting.

In Wheeling, Graham had 1,271. Atcher 1,203 with 41 of 42 precincts lined.

Graham's margin of victory came in Palatine Township where he won 2,453 votes to Atcher's 2,442 with all but one of the 33 precincts counted.

In Burlington, 7,195 to 7,132, Graham won 2,453 votes to Atcher's 2,442 with all but one of the 33 precincts counted.

Atcher conceded defeat last night three hours after polls closed when he called by 1,600 votes. Later, rumors that he might have been in the race, prompted the message which he watched in the morning.

Mr. Atcher said he was "not" a Republican headquarter.

"By the way, senator," he said, "I am not a Republican."

"I am happy the campaign is over," Graham said, "and I am happy to see the results."

Sen. Russell Arrington and his staff, John Beckler, Sen. Durbin and Dick Ogilvie for their support on the rest of these directly involved in the campaign.

Graham said he was glad that all of his state's representatives had been elected.

He said he was glad to see the results of the election and to see the results of the election.

The victory was doubly sweet for Schlickman who counted in an easy re-election to state representative as well.

Peskin Outpolls Chapman

Two 3d District Democrats fought it out for top spot on the November state representative ballot.

The surprise winner was Rep. Bernard A. Peskin, Northfield, who defeated Rep. Eugene Chapman, Arlington Heights, in a close battle that was marked with "bullet" ballots.

"Bullet" ballots are votes cast for only one of the candidates in a two-candidate race. That candidate receives three votes. Chapman forced bullet ballots in Wheeling Township but was defeated by the Peskin vote in the outlying areas in the eight counties of the sprawling 3d District.

Despite the fact that both candidates have been nominated at stake was first position on the November ballot where, it is conceded, one of the two will fall to Republican power.

THREE candidates will be elected out of the four in November. Because of the COG campaign in the township, one of the Democrats is acknowledged as the likely losing candidate.

That is why the Democrats, as in Wheeling Township, placed such emphasis on carrying Rep. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman carried out Wheeling out of the eight townships making up the 3d District. She polled 1,250 votes in her home township to 1,645 for Peskin.

Incompleteness gave Peskin about a 1,000-vote lead with not enough strength to be heavy favor to choose the losing candidate of the race.

After Mrs. Chapman was securing her opponent in Wheeling, Peskin returned the endorsement in Northfield Township where another returns gave him 2,479 to 2,333 plurality.

PESKIN also carried Palatine, Huntley and Burlington townships. Reports from Schaumburg and Meigs District.

Set Hearing On Tally Ho Lawsuit

Mount Prospect's lawsuit to stop condemnation and destruction of the Tally Ho apartments will have its first court hearing July 7.

The case is to be heard by Master in Chancery Mervyn Arvey in his office at 1 N. LaSalle, Chicago.

Martha Smith, attorney for the village said The Day that he will submit evidence to show that the abandoned, unfinished apartment building, known as Tally Ho, was damaged as well as an expense, and that the building should be destroyed.

The evidence will include photographs of the various structural alterations made to the apartments, open stairways and damage caused by vandals, prostitutes and law violators. Testimony by village officials and building experts is expected to establish whether rehabilitation or destruction of Tally Ho is the least solution to the structural damage problem.

REPRESENTATIVES for the owners of Marshall Savage and Lash, who hold the mortgage on the building, will have an opportunity to tell the court if there is a chance that the time against the property can be satisfied even as it is.

Lawsuits for the destruction, who did the work on the buildings but were never paid, have accompanied the problem.

THE SHOP just opened a few weeks ago. Richard began the advertising campaign for the project by mailing the ad of the Arlington and Prospect Five West Ads. He was an enthusiastic toward the shop that Friday he spent 1000 in what was in the day, all promoting a different aspect of the printing business.

Richard has received orders for printing business cards, stationery, letterheads, small advertisements, and other small jobs. He also has an engraving of pictures, and some printing to make his work even more attractive.

The response to his ads were terrific. Customers were immediately impressed by Richard's efficiency and superior service. He had made for his patrons many samples of his type, work, also "cut" or engraved he had obtained from local printers.

RICHARD credits his success of business to the fact that he is young and has active love of work to compare with larger, more elaborate printing places. For the last week, he has received an average of 1 job a day.

"Since it's going so well, I'd like to continue it throughout the summer and through high school," he said.

The Excitement of a Horse Race --- It Has 4 Faces

The excitement of a horse race is ignited by many things. The struggle by the jockey to win the race is the first. Then comes the struggle by the spectators to see the race, which gives the race its excitement.

There is a tug-of-war between the jockey and the horse. The jockey tries to win the race, while the horse tries to win the race. The struggle between the two is the excitement of the race.

The last part of the race is the exciting sight as the horse crosses the finish line. The jockey and the horse are both exhausted, but the excitement of the race is still there.

Mt. Prospect Legion Nine Trips Viator

BY DALE NORMAN
Mt. Prospect's American Legion baseball team rolled to its second straight exhibition victory without a loss yesterday, defeating St. Vrain 7-0.

The PROSPECTS looked as confident as they did in their first game, which began tonight as they defeated the Viator players for eight straight wins. Even more encouraging was the team's performance in the field. They were guilty of only one error and came up with a handful of fielding gems.

Three prospect players looked as if they were going to be early winners by starter Selata, who pitched the first inning. Selata pitched the first inning, but he was not as good as he was in the first inning. Selata was charged with five of the lower runs, as he yielded only two hits but walked seven while striking out two.

SALATA was yanked in favor of J. D. Thorne in the third after walking the first four men in the frame. Thorne got the next two outs, but he was not as good as he was in the first inning. Thorne pitched the first inning, but he was not as good as he was in the first inning.

Deer Hunting Permits Available June 27

No deer hunting permits will be issued from each station during the hunting season for this year, according to the Illinois Department of Conservation.

IN PREVIOUS years a limited number of permits were issued on a first-come, first-served basis at check stations in several counties and northwestern counties in the United States returned from the field. This was to insure an adequate harvest of white deer in the counties with heavy deer populations.

Technicians have found that deer numbers have been reduced to levels compatible with the environment in these counties. Therefore, no permits will be issued. All permits for this year will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis at check stations in several counties and northwestern counties in the United States returned from the field.

Teal Hunters Should Apply For 1966 Permits

Illinois sportsmen who plan to hunt teal during the season Sept. 1-15, 1966, should apply for their teal hunting permits as soon as possible. The permits will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis at check stations in several counties and northwestern counties in the United States returned from the field.

Peskin's Showing Gives Him Top Spot on Ballot

Peskin was elected without opposition in a third term as committeeman.
"It looks like we have a lot of work to do between now and November," she said. "I think this setback is going to make me work harder. Right now, I am thinking about getting on with the job."
"OUR MEN in Wheeling did their job and we thought the turnout was great without any strong primary opposition.
We'll look forward to an interesting campaign and a victory party in November," said
Wheeling Township Dykes.

DOCTOR SAYS
Locating Specialists

W.C. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

I still get many letters asking me to recommend a surgeon who does a specific type of operation, or some other type of specialist in various parts of the country. Since this column is not a proper place for answers to that type of question, I would suggest that you get that kind of information from your county medical society. Although they are not allowed to furnish you with a single name, they will give you two or three to choose from, and from something about the background of each.

Q - What is Menstrua?

Would daily injections help headache?

A - Menstrua is a chemical process that is released from cells that are damaged by an allergic reaction. It causes dilation of the blood vessels and large amounts seeping on the brain increase the pressure in the cranium. This causes a type of headache called a tension headache.

In an effort to determine victims of this disease, a section of small injections of insulin are sometimes given. Although good results are obtained in some victims, this treatment is not universally successful. A drug combination (Miltrex), available only on a doctor's prescription, is often helpful for this type of headache.

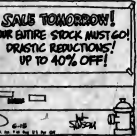

Q - I have been taking Prothin for two months to relax colon spasms and counteract tension. Am there any side effects? Does it act as a laxative?

A - Prophenidine (Prothin) is a tranquilizer. If while taking it you have drowsiness, blurred vision or dryness of the mouth, your doctor will probably want to reduce the dosage. Since the drug is given to relax your colon it will not act as a laxative, but the nervous tension for which it is given is at least a powerful relaxant.

For Dad: A Grill and All the Gear

Delight Dad on Father's Day with a gas-fired barbecue grill. The grill is for to cook on and they'll be the outdoor entertaining.

A gas-fired barbecue grill and all the gear to go with it may be the answer for what to give Dad as a Father's Day gift on Sunday, June 19. He'll mean it when he says, "It's just what I wanted," if the Father's Day shoppers select equipment best suited to his outdoor cooking needs.

Northern Illinois Gas Company home service director Charles Delaney has a few helpful suggestions for selecting Dad's special gift.

Shop around and get acquainted with all the features of the gas grill, she says. Have your local dealer or NIGCo home accountant demonstrate the appliance. "It turns out perfectly cooked juicy steaks — rare, medium, well or the fine shading in between — mouth watering roasts and a host of other broiled, baked and barbecued foods with speed, ease and safety."

FIND OUT what features are standard on the grill and what optional features are available. For example, Mrs. Delaney explains, the most distinguished feature of the gas grill is the use of permanent ceramic briquettes, heated by a gas flame, to provide infra-red radiation.

This is the fastest cooking method known today. And, she adds, unlike the charcoal-fired grill, proper heating temperatures of the briquettes is maintained by a simple control setting for high, medium or low.

The Father's Day grill shoppers will be amazed at the many accessories available for the gas grill. There are motorized rotisseries, hoods, carts, wind shields, attachable work surfaces and storage cabinets. However, evaluate these accessories in terms of their usefulness, advises Mrs. Delaney. Some of these features will save time, energy, and may be a wise investment.

Prices for gas grills range from $49.95 to $200 with a small additional charge for installation, depending on the location of the gas outlet.

DELIGHT DAD on Father's Day with a gas-fired grill, says Mrs. Delaney. In turn, he will delight the family with many gourmet meals. Here are recipes from the "Let's Have a Barbecue" booklet, published by the Northern Illinois Gas Company Home Service Department. Dad will have fun trying them on his own gas grill. These booklets are available upon request.

Queen-Size Beds for Fashion And Comfort

The queen-size bed will be the fashion star of the bedroom this spring. Retailers have decided that the queen-size is the perfect compromise between the too-small standard double bed and the extra-large king-size models. As a result, they are stocking queen-size beds and more heavily.

While the queen-size is only six inches wider than a double bed, that six inches can make a world of difference to the occupants. Yes, you can use a queen-size mattress with your old headboard, bedspread, and blankets. And it is rarely a problem to fit a queen-size bed into even a tiny bedroom. If the room will take a double bed, it will take a queen-size.

For convenience, many of the larger mattresses are flexible, so they bend without suffering damage to go around corners and through low doorways. Later from mattresses do not have to be turned either, a special advantage to super-size beds.

Fully-enslaved of all mattresses sold are now super-sized. Most of these bigger beds are bought by new parents and other young couples, who are cramped and uncomfortable in standard size beds because they are taller and heavier on the average than the rest of the adult population.

Newlyweds also like the fashionable, luxurious appearance of the super-size beds. There is no need to explain that a bed is super-sized. A visitor realizes it just as soon as she sees it.

Super-size prices vary widely, depending on the quality of the mattress and bedding set. As a rule of thumb, a king-size set costs between $119 and $200 while a queen-size set can be purchased for between $119 and $200.

Comfortable to cook in, cheerful to eat in, this kitchen has a center island with sinks and mobile dishwasher on one side, much bar on the other. Wood-grain finished refrigerator, freezer, two - even electric range are placed for step-saving convenience. Appliances by Frigidaire.

'Float Through' Traffic Patterns

Two new model homes, now open to viewing in White Plains of Northbrook combine new elegance and "float through" traffic patterns with basic construction improvements aimed at permanence and living comfort.

The new 4-bedroom, Colonial-style homes were designed and built by Electronic Homes, Inc., developer of White Plains. Ben Sears, president of Electronic Homes, says the homes were designed specifically for the home buyer looking for the stomach in elegance — a home reflecting the culture and refinement of Colonial days — at the same time with practical advantages of sound improved modern construction.

"We'd like visitors to plan to spend a half-day with us," says Sears. "That way, they'll experience what we mean by our 'float through' traffic pattern. They'll be able to observe at leisure the newest thinking in residential design that's gone into these White Plains homes."

"They can lounge in our

"New Ideas" kitchen—larger than some living rooms — thoroughly inspect such construction features as super strength, extra efficient insulation, special roof truss construction that allows for spaciousness and abundance partition and walk-in closet — important structural features behind the door."

THE TWO new model homes now on display — the "Colonial" and the "Vermont" — with all their extra emphasis on elegance and quality construction — are priced from $18,300 to $48,500 — according to Sears, well below what people generally expect to pay for comparable luxury living.

The largest of the two new homes in White Plains is called the "Colonial." It features a distinctive double-door entry, opening into an elegant central foyer that leads off into all main level rooms; 4 oversize bedrooms with an extra-large walk-in closet in the master bedroom.

THE OTHER model is called the "Vermont." It has 4 spacious bedrooms, a very large, paneled again level family room and a picture window entry protected by the front porch. Both the

"Colonial" and the "Vermont" have wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, 2 full bathrooms in addition to a main level powder room and spacious "New Ideas" kitchen.

White Plains in Northbrook is easy to reach. Take Edgemont Expressway to Dundas Road, turn west on Dundas to Lindwater Road, then go three blocks to the model homes.

Remodeling? Check Insurance

Are you planning extensive improvements on your home this Spring? If so, most likely you'll call your insurance agent when the job is completed and have him raise your home insurance to cover the added value.

But the time to call your agent is not after but BEFORE, according to Jan Roberts, manager of Roberts Insurance Agency. There's a strong chance says Roberts that your agent can provide you with free advice that will save you money on the additional insurance you'll need and make your home safer too.

Say, for example, you're adding a bedroom or an all-weather porch. From his fund of experience with other clients who have come to him with similar projects, he can point you with some mighty helpful ideas on things and materials and design. Providing now for your fire protection — adequate stairs, windows large enough to escape through, well planned wiring — will, he knows, make your home a safer place in which to live.

After the improvements are made it's time, of course to check with your agent to make sure that your "new" home is properly insured to value.

So much for this Spring's home improvement. But what about the rest of us? Our homes are improving, at least in value, without our lifting a finger, says Mr. Roberts. A house built in 1940 is now worth almost four times its original cost. One built as recently as 1960 may have grown ten percent in value.

No-care Patios

Outdoor patio living should include maintenance — free elements. Decks of domestic ceramic tile, much of which is now quality certified by the Tile Council of America, require little or no attention. Patio furniture, too, should be of easily cleaned, durable materials. And trees and flowers should be of types that shed little or no and do not litter the area with fallen leaves, blossoms and fruit.

Glassed Floors

Homeowners who like the look of glassed tile floors can have them on their floors. The Tile Council of America, trade association of the nation's ceramic tile manufacturers, reports that domestic, single glazed tiles suitable for light-duty floors are now on the market. Many of these are available quality certified by the Tile Council.

Even Beginner Can Build This Barbecue

Even a beginner at do-it-yourself projects can build this simple, good-looking barbecue. The materials required are:

- 20 to 1 ton of 4 inch stone
- 20 - 8 inch cinder or concrete blocks
- 1 - 18 inch x 24 inch grill
- 4 bags cement
- 1/4 yard of gravel
- 50 firebricks
- 6 - 4 inch cinder or concrete blocks
- 3 pieces of coping stone
- 1/2 yard of sand

Start by selecting the location for the barbecue facing away from prevailing summer winds and near enough to the kitchen for convenience.

IN CHOOSING stone for your barbecue, select pieces generally rectangular in shape.

Since these are similar to install. Avoid the use of odd shapes which can result in a "mosaic piece" when attempted by a beginner.

To make the base, excavate the desired area (48 inches x 60 inches is a good size) to a depth of about 8 inches. Set up boards around the perimeter of the excavation. Place reinforcing mesh wire in the bottom.

Fill with concrete mix (one part cement, two parts sand and four parts gravel), and with a rule pull the mixture straight, level across the edges, and let set for 24 hours.

CINDER OR concrete block is used as a back filler and is usually laid up first. Take care in your planning to allow enough room for the stone veneer. Firebrick is used to line the wall and floor of the firebox.

To set stones use a mortar mix of one part cement to three parts sand mixed to a workable consistency with water. Do not set stones of the same size and shape side by side. Make the joints as thin as possible, and fill completely with mortar. Smooth out joints using a stick with a dull point.

Brush off excess mortar taking care not to let any cement harden on the stones as this taken away from the quality appearance of your barbecue.

A strong wall requires bonding the stone to the block with metal wall ties. These are set in the joints of the cinder block, and then caught between the stones as they are laid up.

THE METAL grill unit should be kept handy as it must be placed and fitted in position during construction. Do not wait until the barbecue is finished to set it. Top coping pieces of stone add to the finished effect and give the barbecue a professional look.

Floral Acrylic carpet in apricot, green and gold sets color scheme for room reflecting spring to English colonial decorating.

Key To Colonial Decor

The swing to the English style of decorating brings a nostalgic tear to the eye of an ardent Rudyard Kipling fan.

A living room, for example, pillows on a carpeted window seat filled out the color scheme. HANDSOME bookcases from a new collection (by Thomasville) are trimmed in simulated bamboo. These frame a window which is a thought for anyone facing the problem of a single window that looks up a wall.

The decorator further picks up the motif in a rattan-trimmed table next to a wicker chair. All very, very British colonial.

Use of the bamboo reflects a growing trend in the furnishings field and was described by one individual as being as basic to furniture as black is to fashion. The reason: it goes well with every furniture style.

FLORAL carpeting, a basic in traditional English room design, shows through the market. However, huge cabbage roses have been held to a minimum. Instead the bright, gay florals this season generally are small in scale with the tones soft but not watery - really. Do not confuse them with the gigantic flowers used by contemporary rug designers.

Capitalizing on the restaurant is color, for example is the use of a friendship bouquet floral (by Alexander Smith) in apricot, green and gold.

As interior designers have used the floral in an Acrylic carpet for a quiet study room. The apricot in the carpet is repeated in the wall color. The green was re-emphasized in a sofa and in a striped new cushion on a wicker chair. Bold

It's Chigger Time

They Just Cannot Resist Bare Legs

Every time headlines rise and shorts surge in popularity, a tiny creature eagerly seizes from a tiny pest which can cause huge business discomfort.

That pest is the chigger, an almost invisible summer nuisance which, according to the National Pest Control Association, raises painful welts by the millions on those who venture bare-legged into infested outdoor areas.

Chiggers, also known as red bugs, occur in all the southern states and in most of the temperate parts of the United States from South Dakota and Nebraska to Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

THE CHIGGER season begins in late spring and lasts through September or the first frost. It is the young chigger, in the larval stage, that causes all the trouble, feeding on man and animals.

In this stage the larvae are orange, yellow or light red, but so small that they are virtually invisible to man. The body of this pest is hairy, has three pairs of legs and a mouth equipped with two pairs of grasping pincers mounted by a forked claw, according to Dr. Philip J. Spar, Technical Director of the Association.

This sinister menace to man is frequently found in low, damp places, such as heavy patches, orchards, woodlands, but on occasion they infest lawns, parks and golf courses where they are particularly troublesome to high-handicappers.

THE YOUNG chigger is at work for man or animal on whom they feed. Once they attach themselves to the skin, they scurry around for a preferred location where clothing fits tightly over the skin or where the flesh is thin, tender or wrinkled.

Then the brood begins. Inserting the mouth parts in the skin, often in hair follicles or pores, they inject a fluid which dissolves tissues and they suck up the liquefied tissue. When well fed, they drop off and resume their life cycle.

The fluid injected into the skin causes reddish welts to appear and is followed by swelling, itching and in some instances fever.

DR. SPEAR points out that, while chiggers are not considered a major pest in the United States, their control in cases of heavy infestation is often difficult and requires professional service.

Chloroform and kerosene are the most effective insecticides. There are also several repellents which discourage chiggers if a person is required to go into a known chigger area.

Chiggers feed on many animals, not the least of which is man, says the National Pest Control Association. Chiggers are active in the late spring and summer in the southern states, and in the warm months throughout the south. Chigger bites cause persistent and irritating itching.

Three Plants Make Up A Novel, Crooked Garden

BY RICHARD DU LANO

There was a crooked man who went a crooked mile; He found a crooked six pence against a crooked stile.

The nursery rhyme could go a bit further and describe three crooked trees and shrubs that might have grown in the crooked man's garden.

The three plants for the novel crooked garden are the fennel willow, the corkscrew willow tree and the contorted hazelnut. All three plants are horticultural varieties but fortunately they are available in local nurseries.

THE CORKSCREW willow is a thin spindly tree that occasionally reaches thirty feet. The twisted corkscrew or permanent wave effect is exhibited in trunk, twigs and even leaves.

The tree is true to its willow name. It propagates easily, grows fast and unfortunately is somewhat brittle. It can be used as a single stem specimen or as a center of interest in the exotic garden. Multi-stem clumps make fast growing screens that will quickly form a picturesque setting against a red wood fence.

A smaller interesting shrub is the recently discovered Japanese fennel willow. As the name implies this plant makes an interesting conversation piece in small city gardens. It hasn't been on the market long enough to determine its ultimate height. However, it gives every indication that it is a dwarf plant suited to large planters and flared pots near large boulders or a pool.

THE BRANCHES instead of showing a regular spiral pattern, grow very irregularly. They seem to change their growing direction at will. The result is a very varied crook of appearance on even the youngest branches.

Flower arrangers clip and save the distorted branches for use in Japanese style flower arrangements. Sometimes the branches are flat and an inch or so wide. Sometimes they are round, yet continually growing in unexpected directions without the aid of the gardener. Like all willows this one is easy to grow and hard on last winter's experience, completely hardy.

HARRY LAUDIES' walking stick is a whimsical name for the contorted hazelnut. Unlike the willows this plant tolerates shade and is very slow growing. Because of its slow growth it is also a suitable subject for large tubs or planters which can be placed on the edge of shady patios.

Because of its interesting loops and circles this shrub is interesting all year long. The silver to bluish twigs make an interesting pattern against the winter snow. During spring the catkins add dappled ornaments. Sparse summer leaves tend to only make the plant ridiculous. If over a natural growing plant produced a laugh this is it. In fact even should this plant die, and this is not likely, the dead branches present a most striking feature in the garden. In fact you might say this shrub is "wanted dead or alive."

TRANSFORM A GARDEN ENTRANCE from a passageway into a useful too-for-two cover - cheerful for breakfast or star-gazing, too. Flowered dogwood makes this corner of the room a sheltered extension of the garden world. The dogwoods are a new kind of roadway that's particularly practical: a new self-healing stone damage by rain, condensation and

Here's How to Fight Mr. Rust

If you're in an average household, you can save hundreds of dollars in property value with just one weekend's work to protect your metal surfaces, lawn furniture from the unsightly, corroding effects of rust.

Duruxo, a leading maker of anti-corrosion paint, estimates that the effects of rust cost United States industry and private citizens between six and seven BILLION dollars a year!

While most of this damage takes place in manufacturing and storage plants, your pocket gets picked, too — if you have unprotected metal which is exposed to the weather over any length of time.

UNUSUALLY, rusty streaks on your housefront from metal rainpipes, railings, nails, or gutters can make it an eyesore. Fences, ash, railings, air conditioners, pipes which become pitted may eventually require a major installation job. Metal lawn furniture which has peeled its original finish may stain new summer clothes and raise cleaning bills.

But, fortunately, rust can be prevented and stopped by coating the affected area with modern rust preventive which you can paint or spray on in a choice of vivid colors. This linseed-oil alloy, specially formulated with non-fading pigments and water resistant resins, called Duruxo, has the ability to "wet out" and penetrate into the metal and stop corrosion at the source.

Here's a Saturday checklist of metal surfaces around you and tips on how to protect them:

STEEL WINDOW CASEMENTS: If new and unstained, wash them with detergent to remove dirt and grease. Protect glass with newspapers and masking tape, and paint with protective coating. Give an extra thickness of it around rivets, bolts, in crevices and seams.

If rust has already attached, remove it with a wire brush attachment on your electric drill — along with the dirt and old paint — before you apply the coating. While this is not strictly necessary, it will give you a better protective finish over a longer period of time.

OUTDOOR SCENES, light fixtures, lawn furniture and wrought iron: Uncover metal features from house and apply a protective coating to the parts which were attached to the wood.

Nail heads — special of-fenders — can be touched up with coating, counter-sink, and then covered with wood putty to prevent the streaking of wood.

As easy way to protect lawn furniture is by using a spray can of Duruxo, which also gives your chairs colorful, enamel finish.

Wrought iron furniture resists corrosion better than iron or steel but it still needs a protective coating, especially in the joints where the metal has been fixed.

GLAZERED GUTTERS, downspout, storage sheds, fences, mailboxes, garbage cans: Unhappily, it's not true that galvanized metals won't corrode. Under normal atmospheric conditions, zinc is consumed by chemical reaction at a very slow rate while the metal beneath it is attacked.

But in a very corrosive atmosphere, it may take only a few months for even galvanized metal to corrode. A compound is especially made for this problem, and can be applied on new galvanized steel objects without acid etching or weathering.

Paint galvanized gutters inside and out — then apply an asphalt coat on the inside. Keep them clear of leaves and other debris which decay and release acids that consume the zinc coating and start corrosion.

Pipes, pipes, radiators: If you live in a hard water area, you may have problems with your laundry, but your corrosion problems with pipes and radiators may scarcely exist — since calcium carbonate serves as a natural rust inhibitor. But with soft water, corrosion may indeed be a problem. Handle pipes like any other steel surface, cleaning them with detergent and painting them with a rust preventive coating.

The same applies to heaters, radiators, and appliances, paying special attention to places where moisture collects and concentrates, such as the joint of a pipe or the base of a heater.

Roofs, garden tools: A small concentrated area of rust can ruin an expensive mower or pair of shears by keeping it from working effectively.

To prevent this, clean the rusted area with sand and wool. Wipe away all dirt and grease. Apply rust preventive paint to the area, and let dry thoroughly.

UNIQUE SWIVEL-SPRAY ACTION: This new Moen faucet can direct water to all corners of the kitchen sink... and it can be either a needle spray (as shown) or an inverted stream! Just turn down on the water faucet for the spray, push back up for the stream. The ball socket of this patented unit allows both an upward vertical swing of 35 degrees and a full 360 degree rotation.

New homes in the fourth unit of Timbercrest will be the most fully-equipped built yet in the northwest suburban community, according to Irv Miller of Moore-Well builders, developers of the area located in the village of Schaumburg.

According to Miller, the price of each of the six models includes oven, range, washing machine, dryer, storm windows and screens, wall-to-wall carpeting and ceramic tiled baths.

The models are priced between $21,950 and $27,900.

Offered in ranch and multi-level styles, they have easy-upgrade interiors of fine brick, rough-sawn cedar and minimum siding, three or four bedrooms, one and two-car attached garages and paneled family rooms.

MILLER SAID that the decision to include the appliances and other equipment was prompted by the large number of first-home buyers who have been selecting homes.

"We are getting transferred

Roundup For The Day

By United Press International

4 Die in Chicago Sewage Tunnel

Four workmen met death yesterday in a Chicago sewage treatment plant tunnel that spewed 500-degree steam. The victims were Pat Coyle and Neil Pagnella of the Express Co. in Melrose Park, George Hobson, assistant manager of the treatment plant and Edward Kucaba, an engineer at the plant. Forty-eight-year-old Alex Walter was saved.

The men had crawled into the half-mile-long tunnel to inspect a leak and make an estimate of repair work. They were about 100 feet into the tunnel when the steam burst and seared their lungs. Sanitary District officials say they will begin an immediate investigation into the accident.

40 Marines Hold Off 400 Reds

SAIGON - About 40 US Marines on a barren South Vietnamese hilltop held off repeated attacks by Communist forces for 10 hours today. The Marines had only eight bullets left when reinforcements were called in by helicopter at dawn. Only two Marines in the surrounded reconnaissance platoon escaped unscathed in force hand-and-foot fighting near Chi Lai, 50 miles north of Saigon.

Strong Auto Safety Bill Expected

WASHINGTON - The Senate Commerce Committee appears ready to approve a strong auto safety bill requiring that mandatory standards be met for all new cars by the end of the year. Only minor issues remain to be worked out at today's meeting and a favorable vote is expected on the measure.

Asians Against Nuclear Testing

SEOUL - The nine-nation Asia-Pacific ministerial conference has issued a statement deploring all nuclear tests in the region. Although the statement mentions no names, the delegates, chiefly Communist China's robust test and the scheduled French test in their condemnation. The ministerial conference was held in Seoul, Korea, last today.

Firemen Continue 'Starve-In'

LOUISVILLE - Firemen in Louisville are continuing their "starve-in" at city hall despite a plea by the city manager to go home. The firemen have stayed at city hall for three days and insist they will "stick it out" until the group receives pay increases. The city has offered the proposed budget, without pay increases, will remain.

Keep Tax File on Storm Loss

Residents of the northeast suburbs who suffered losses last week's tornado should keep a list of property damages and loss to be claimed on 1966 Federal income tax returns.

Brooks was graduated from Wilson Junior College and attended Northwestern University. He is an associate member of the Rock River Valley Planning Council. His current job includes purchasing all the materials for the plant and construction work.

Brooks, 38, and his wife plan to reside in the area.

Topics covered in the booklet are: How to figure the loss to your home; How to figure losses to your car; and other improvements; how to take the insurance proceeds to account for tax purposes; the information you should furnish when you claim your loss; and how to claim the loss on your return.

Coyle said the tax law imposes a floor on deductions for loss of property used for personal purposes. Only the amount of a net loss in excess of $1000 per casualty is deductible.

MARRIED taxpayers filing jointly must adjust to the $1000 floor for each spouse. If they file separate returns, each is subject to the $1000 floor.

Business losses will continue to be fully deductible, Coyle said. In cases where there is damage to a car used for business and pleasure, the $1000 deductible will apply to that portion of the loss charged to personal use.

TAXPAYERS should gather records to substantiate the loss of deductions to be claimed on tax returns. Coyle said. "That the loss was the direct result of the disaster."

The tax law was the direct result of the disaster. "That the loss was the direct result of the disaster."

The booklet may be obtained by writing to The IRS, Department of the Treasury, Box 1193, Chicago, Ill. 60609 or it may be obtained at local libraries. The booklet is available in English, Spanish, Vietnamese, and French.

Primary Over, Wagon Burns

Police said the wagon, owned by John J. Jones, 511 S. Windsor, had been used as a dump for various items.

Planners Call Halt to Zoning For Apartments

The Arlington Heights Planning Commission Wednesday reaffirmed its desire to keep the image of the village as a single family residential area.

It voted to deny approval to a portion of a plan submitted by Miller Builders to build a 15-unit apartment complex on the northwest corner of Algonquin and Golf Rd. to multi-family.

The plan called for rezoning of a 13-acre tract of property.

The request asked that 15 acres be rezoned R-2 commercial, 7.3 acres R-5 multi-family and 5.7 acres single-family R-1.

Miller Builders, developers of Sutter Ridge in Arlington Heights, proposed a development which would include 306 single family lots and two apartment complexes, each with approximately 60 to 65 units.

The developers have a petition for annexation before the village board.

Paul Sanders is owner of the Collier. He reportedly was not present at the meeting on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights by Village Manager A. Hansen.

Hansen was not available for comment as to why the issue was not presented. Sanders' representative, who was present to act as chairperson when the vote is taken.

In the past the Collier has been rezoned a weekly basis to operate as a weekly Saturday night.

Two pretty young girls put their heads together last night and came up with an idea to supply American servicemen in Vietnam with paper hats.

Sharon Gohler, 16, of 13 Edgewood Rd., Prospect Heights, and Christine Krimm, 17, of 1707 George Rd., Wheeling, got the idea from a soldier in Vietnam. He said the girls in a letter that the soldiers do not have much money and said a few paper hats would be appreciated.

The girls contacted Mrs. H. Clancy, counselor at Arlington High School and their former English teacher. She directed them to Arlington High School. The girls then wrote, Wears and the books could be stored in Arlington High School.

MISS GEBER contacted of Governor Harold Hanft and officers there said they would like the books through their Operation Head Start. The U.S. Navy will by the books to the men but the girls have to send them and bring them to Clancy.

The last step is volunteers. The Bureau Book Co. in Des Plaines is donating between 20,000 and 30,000 books for the project. Radio Shack has loaned the girls a typewriter and the girls are Clancy.

The Wheeling Library, the Arlington Public Library and the Wheeling Library have placed orders for the project.

quo Rd. is becoming more heavily industrialized and the land could not be as suitable if developed as single family.

BOARD Vice Chairman Len Mueller moved that the request for rezoning be approved and recommended to the Board of Trustees, but Mueller moved that the request for multi-family zoning be denied. The motion carried.

Park Dist. Increasing Facilities

Arlington Heights Park District has announced that facilities are being improved.

The Park District Board of Commissioners has authorized attorney Charles Schmitt to prepare a contract for the Park District to hire a firm to prepare park plans.

It is another proposed agreement with Dist. 23, the park district is negotiating for the purchase of the Park District facilities for recreation purposes.

THE PARK district will purchase the Park District facilities for recreation purposes.

School Dist. 59 has accepted a proposal of the park district to hold in addition to the usual purpose room at Juliet Lewis School.

The district will pay $12,000 in three annual installments to the school district for enlarging the existing facility. The new facility is located in the Arlington Heights Sutter Ridge subdivision.

A Conscience Salved By $5 Sandals

By JERILYN WATSON
Women's Editor

Once upon a time (yesterday) in a pleasant, tree-lined village (Arlington Heights), a young mother told: "I'm so tired of my clothes, and I really shouldn't spend any money."

"I had this very wicked wish, but I'd feel more wicked if I went on a shopping binge because the children need so many things," noted the lady in distress.

Next as The Day would have it, we couldn't see the girl from her authoritatively findings by buying her a new wardrobe.

Indeed, we offered advice. (Sorry, but life's like that. Wait, wait, and you'll get advice.)

"Get this on the store, get" we urged. "Here they $5 from the grocery money into a whimsical purchase to cheer thy spirit."

THE YOUNG mother brightened. The inland had saved $5 from the grocery money but went.

as a fairly good-looking, somewhat dissatisfied.

"In the mood I'm in, I could hardly tell the difference," she said, smiling.

"What do you want to wear head when it rains?" we countered. "It's been raining a lot lately. Here you looked better."

HER HEAD went back and forth in a vigorously satisfied way.

"I'm a newspaper," we said. "You don't get a ripped plastic rain coat or nothing at all," she said.

"Good — um, ah, —" we said. "Why don't you get a really nice rain hat? They cost $5 or $10 — maybe $4 for one that's discarded."

"There's no such thing as a really nice rain hat," she grumbled. "They're all dirty and ugly and soggy and smelly looking."

LIKE a good fairy godmother, we suggested an alternative rain hat, one made of plastic, one that she could wash at the city dish.

"It's vinyl, stark white, shaped like a woman's hat. This one came from Old Town, where about as various Randers come."

The lady in distress liked it. "I'm getting the vinyl hat," she said, reaching the verdict.

"We were relieved," when she had heard it.

"The vinyl hat also is available shaped like jockey caps, crabs having a lady's bottom with jock plastic on top."

ties," we explained. Being a fairy godmother was easier than it seemed at first.

"I'll be home in a day," she said. "It would improve my mood if I bought one of them. But suppose I don't? I'll risk for the rest of the season? That's what I'll do with my $37."

WE PEEKED discreetly at the customer's shoes, which had the shape of ladies and the volume of married cat hair.

"How about some sandals for the look, yes, however and running wear?" They're cool for summer," we said, tentatively.

"That's a good idea," she said.

said, "Sandals are cool and comfortable."

BY NOW, we had concluded of the world's most agreeable.

"There are really nice leather sandals available for around $5," we said. "Why don't you go hunting?" But she was already at the door, waving.

The next time you see a young mother coming in wearing a woman's hat and sandals, you'll know.

She might have some good advice on what to do with your extra grocery money.

Plastic rain hats are available in the shops of a woman's hat (shown here), jockey caps and baby hats.

Family Leaves On Vacation -- Then Wham!

Mrs. Kramer holds photo of the only car wrecked when a car crashed into her home. It was an old sedan, she said, valued at $400. "It isn't the car," she said. "It's the car that was in the house."

BY JIM BOSS

The John E. Kramer family is on a vacation trip to New Jersey Thursday before police called them home. The call was to notify them that a motorist had driven into their home at 116 Orchard, knocking out a portion of the wall.

Police checked with neighbors and found that the Kramers intended to stay with a relative in South Bend Thursday night. The family telephone book revealed the number of the crash.

NO ESTIMATE of damage has been made, but the Kramers admit it could have been worse. A number of oriental vases and a valuable painting were in the front room. Only one was valued at $500, was broken.

Mrs. Kramer praised police when the car crashed. "I expected to see our home gone and my car wrecked, just ready for looting. The police checked out the front room and boarded up the hole. We are very thankful to them. They did a wonderful job," she said.

MANAGER of the DuPont Corp., said the family's vacation would have to wait. "We will have to stay at home and get this place back in shape," he said.

The driver of the car, Charles Michaelis of Addison, told police he was northbound on Arlington Heights Rd. and lost control of the car. A passenger in the car, Miss Beverly Lefay of Chicago, was slightly injured. She was treated and released from Northwestern Community Hospital.

Police charged Michaelis with driving while intoxicated and negligent driving. "He was drunk," said a police officer.

More Crashes at Same Time in Other Areas

Traffic snafus were causing pretty bad Thursday morning. The crash in the photo at left shattered the car in the center picture at 5:30 p.m. on East 84th, west of Wilke and pulled over, Trooper Mike Landolf of State Police Dist. 3 and the crash driver Edward J.

Plunkett, 35, of Chicago and the driver of the car, Donald J. Herick, 34, of Chicago were killed. At about the same time, two persons were hurt in a collision at Van and St. James. One of the drivers, Philip Brumby of Peoria, Ill., was treated at Northwestern Community Hospital.

Hospital. Brumby's car, shown in picture at right, collided with a car driven by Linda Lockett, 237 S. Kendall. Brumby was charged with driving too fast for conditions, failure to yield and damage to village property.

To Decide Fate Of Cellar License

The owner of the Cellar, a long-age meeting spot at Salem and Davis, will appear before the Arlington Heights township manager in an effort to re-open shop.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson said Paul Sampson is to appear before the district board commission June 27. The commission will determine if Sampson will be granted a license to operate.

Hanson earlier this week refused to grant Sampson a renewal, saying that, in view of a number of complaints of fights in the area of the Cellar, a "cooling-off period" needed.

"I'm not saying that the place per se isn't good for this community," Hanson said. "I am concerned that I take action off-duty police must be there order them weekends. I have no assurance that, if we issued the license without trying to solve some of the problems, some of the trouble might not start again."

Hanson said he felt that there is a definite need to meet the

Roundup For The Day

By United Press International

Seek More Bodies in Burned Ships

NEW YORK CITY - Firemen were still probing the smoldering ruins of a tanker collision for more bodies this morning in New York City's harbor. The collision between two tankers yesterday killed at least 20 seamen with 12 others still missing. Fifty-five persons also were injured, five critically.

Violence Feared in Mississippi

GREENWOOD, Mississippi - A Negro leader fears there may be some racial incidents ahead as the Mississippi freedom march resumes today at Greenwood. Charles Evers, state NAACP, said the marchers may face trouble in the Mississippi delta area because of lack of adequate protection. State Governor Paul Johnson yesterday withdrew most of the state troopers guarding the marchers.

Reds Claim 2 Boats Sunk

LONDON - The Communists claim to have sunk two commandeered boats trying to enter territorial waters off North Viet Nam. The New China News Agency - monitored in London - said the boats belonged to so-called "U.S. aggressors and their henchmen." The dispatch added that the one boat was sunk today and the other yesterday.

Buddhists Riot 5th Straight Day

SAIGON - The common denominator today in Saigon and South Viet Nam's far northern city of Hanoi was fear. Government police and troops used it in both cities to quell Buddhist mobs and demonstrations. In Saigon, the police also fired gas into the air as they routed the Buddhists in a 5th straight day of anti-government protests. In Hanoi, Buddhist monks burned two military buses and rubber hoses. Combat police in Hanoi prevented the monks from reaching the central city as they shot about the outskirts of the city. In Hanoi, Premier Ky's newly-arrived propaganda forces of some 1,600 men surrounded the student Lacapier Fort serving as a sanctuary for hundreds of school-leavers.

In the shins over North Viet Nam, U.S. planes dropped Bunker bombs on the city. They flew 50 miles against the Communists. The attacks were centered in the supply lines of the northern pantheons, and caused the loss of a U.S. Navy ship. The pilot ejected the Communists in troops were closing in on him.

Forget Some Notions About Money

Whether you're a new bride or a wife of many years, it's a good bet that your attitude toward family finances will affect future happiness.

Dr. Carl F. Hovener, executive vice president of the National Consumer Finance Assn., calls for a debunking of old wives' tales about money.

"Many American families would be a lot better off, economically and emotionally, if they forgot some of their notions about money," he said.

Dr. Hovener listed a list of what he terms "popular fallacies."

1. It isn't necessary for a wife to have money for her husband's needs.

"Nothing phases more stress on a marriage than lack of complete honesty about money—where it goes and where it comes from," Dr. Hovener said.

Dr. James A. Ferguson, a marriage counselor and the late Dr. Roy A. Barkley, co-authors of "Money and Your Marriage," said financial planning should be a group enterprise. The wife and all children old enough to be consulted in family decisions should discuss money.

2. A really good budget isn't budgeting in advance is one way to keep your marriage on the right path.

For example, state licensed consumer finance companies not only make small loans, but give prudent advice on how much credit you can afford and what kind of credit best suits your purpose.

3. Pay pay all your engagements when you get paid.

This statement explains exactly why many families can't save.

After they take a vacation, buy new clothes, and give their kids money, they're left with very little to pay their bills.

4. If you're a woman, you should be the one to manage the family budget.

This can be accomplished by deciding each year how much should be saved for the family's needs. Make a realistic decision—then do your best to stick to it.

5. If you can handle credit, you can handle debt.

Any reputable credit source will tell you that credit doesn't help you live the budget. In fact, the monthly credit payments become part of your budget.

6. Buy the National Con-

An Unusual Present For All Dads

Most youngsters plan to present their fathers with a gift Sunday to mark Father's Day, but one Little Arlington Heights girl will offer Daddy an unusual present.

The youngster, a 9-year-old fifth grader, who asked not to be identified, wrote a poem. She said she brought it to the shop and she would be shared by other children's fathers.

FATHER:
Father works and strives all day
And that is all that we can say.
For Father never has any fun,
But now we give our fathers a run.

So on June 19th let your father rest.
Then he will know you think he's best.
